Protective “Shots” For Infants And Children Are Questioned

Mrs. David (Carol) Hatch of the Hatch Loan Library Service, representing the California Department of Social Welfare, called attention to a statement by Dr. Harry H. (Handsome) Carter, discussing the nature of “Shots,” which he said were “just another word for shots.”

1. Pro. "Polio, smallpox, DPT and other shots are protective against diseases which cannot be fought off simply by being healthy.”

2. Pro. “Shots give the body a chance to build up antibodies against these specific diseases naturally, by giving the child a small case of the disease.”

Con. “It is never desirable to inject foreign substances into the bloodstream of a healthy individual, even a serious one, depending on the individual.”

3. Con. “I live in New York and after checking I have discovered that ‘shots’ are taken by any person, many of a kind to keep a child from getting these shots at school, regardless of religious personal feeling. All children must be considered, etc.—especially if parents would allow penicillin or surgery, if that were indicated.”

Prospects Good

For Tenth Seminar

By mid-October, 20 persons had registered for full participation and six for partial participation to the Tenth Seminar of the Center of the Living, Brookville, Ohio. Included are one from California, one from Illinois, one from Michigan, five from Ohio, five from Pennsylvania, one from Iowa, one from Illinois, three from New Jersey, one from Florida, one from New Hampshire, twenty other members of the faculty of the University of California, one who had contributed to a (generous) fund to assist with scholarships. The seminar was to begin on Friday evening, Oct. 15, and to end with sessions a day through Oct. 29, at Exeter, N. H. Its basic purpose is to plan the organization and cover the curriculum of regional and state Schools of Living.

Continuing Activity at the Old Mill

On Sept. 18-19, a ditch was dug from the springhouse to the schoolhouse. Preparations were made to put the pump in that will make possible a permanent water supply to the Mill kitchen. On Sept. 23-26, plumbing and facilities for the kitchen and a bath room were worked on. These improvements were completed during 1964-65 by School of Living members, is deleted. Once again, we say,"If you can make a house another home, is money or time, let it suit your convenience and your help.”

TO MATCH A $200 OFFER!

One member has offered a $200 contribution whenever $200 is sent in. What will you do? Do your part! Dr. Leo Koch, president of the School of Living, has sent in $20 to help match this gift. Are there nine others who will do the same? Send it soon, to School of Living, Brookville, Ohio.

Labor Day Weekend At Old Mill Was Spent In “Labors of Love”

By Grace Leaver

As the people began to arrive for the Labor Day Weekend at the Old Mill, many activities were being planned. By Sunday morning the big roof ing job on the old barn-—a job— was finished and the ground was—was... The soil here is a rich, sandy loam, and the prize main crop of this plot was squash. Butter nut and Acorn, huge fruit and vines without a bag or blemish. One to the orchard on the side hill, with neat, well-clipped paths among the tree branches many kinds of fruit and nuts. These “hakes” are “natural hygienists.”

Here was a huge mound—10 feet by 4 wide and 1-4 high—of cherry pits, used for mulching the trees. They are in the cherry center of the world. Then on down the hill, a strawberry patch, past the old beaver dam swamp which some marauders had dispossessed of dynamite, down to the private beach on big Lake Michigan. We took off our shoes and walked on the cool beach, and then returned to the house. This time we stopped at the garden of greens to exclaim over the lush chard, beets, broccoli, cabbage, artichokes and cauliflower. We heard the story of a bower in toms of rhubarb from a nearby cattle feeding to change this spot from hard clay to mellow, humus-laden, highly-productive garden soil.

A house 'looks finished' when this "for sale" function' concept implies that the actual beauty of a building is relative to the degree to which it meets the demands of its inhabitant. A house with a high degree of living efficiency is almost always esthetically pleasing.
One should not, however, confuse simple, efficient house beauty with the sort of rational purism that currently passes off as modern architecture. In some quarters we find a revolt against rationalism in favor of more poetry and imagination in designing buildings. Architectural schools too often foster among students an academic acerbity which undermines the rising young architect (in Eric Gill's terms) to a "subhuman condition of intellectual irresponsibility." The rejection of the house box with its meaningless decoration ("adorned"") was first successfully achieved by the Spanish architect, Antoni Gaudi. In 1919, a few independent architects had already developed a flowing sculptural, plastic quality in building that, other system, the free-form, will be discussed in the following chapter. Both systems represent attempts to ground upon basic design concepts universally applicable.

Such a concept is the optimum circulation path, a universal constant in design and structure economy. A circulation path may be a circular hall or an imaginary traffic lane. The Small Homes Council found that when the circulation path area of a house exceeds 15% of the total floor area, the total layout suffers. Required room sizes and circulation path should be centrally located and should radiate to the various parts of the house. If the circulation path is not near the main entry, we went off by any other part.
